ORDERS GO INTO EFFECT AT ONCE

Postmaster General Gives Up Control of Telegraph and Telephone Lines.

SEVERAL RULES STAND

Companies Are Prohibited From Discriminating Against Union Employees and Existing Rates Remain in Effect.

Washington, June 6.—Postmaster General Burleson has ordered telegraph and telephone companies whose lines have been controlled and operated by the government since Aug. 1 to resume immediately operations for their own account.

The Postoffice department, however, under terms of Mr. Burleson's order, retains a measure of control of the services, pending final action by congress.

Regulations prohibiting discrimination against wire employees because of union affiliations, maintaining existing rates and charges and instructing companies to keep special accounts to facilitate settlement between themselves and the government are retained in effect under the order issued by the postmaster general.

Says Duty Prompted Him.

Mr. Burleson accompanied the order with a statement giving the reasons which impelled him to take the action. He asserted that the President having recommended the return of the properties, the senate interstate commerce committee having indicated that immediate return was advisable and the house committee having, through hearing, manifested a desire for action toward that end, he felt it his duty to return operative control to the various private owners.

Strikes threatened by telephone and telegraph employees' unions had no bearing on the department's action, officials said.

One Control Board Retained.

The order abolishes the wire operating board of which Union N. Bethel of New York is chairman, but the wire control board, consisting of John A. Koons, first assistant postmaster general, W. H. Lamar and the statistical and legal staff, will continue to exercise the control retained by the order until the government's connection with the wire systems is ended.

Contracts for compensation and awards by state commissions remain in effect under the order as well as the increased toll rates, service connection charges and special exchange rates recently authorized by the postmaster general. Special arrangements are provided for compensating mutual and co-operative companies.

Representative Graham, Republican, of Illinois, was selected as chairman of the general committee, and the division of subcommittees will give the Republicans two members to one for the Democrats. The investigations will cover expenditures for aircraft, ordnance, camps and cantonments, quartermaster supplies and purchases abroad.

BUSINESS IS GROWING

Hines Predicts Big Increase in Railway Revenue.

Director of Roads Expects Larger Net Profit Will Help Wipe Out Deficit.

Washington, June 6.—Director General Hines of the Railroad administration, in concluding his testimony at the house appropriations committee hearing on his request for $1,200,000,000 for use in operating the government controlled lines for the remainder of the calendar year, predicted substantial increase of railroad revenue because of the growing volume of general business.

The increased business, he said, would tend to eliminate further government loss from operation of the roads because the operating costs would not be advanced correspondingly.

Mr. Hines pointed out that the biggest crops in the history of the country would be moved during the summer and that an increased coal movement was apparent. Industries having resumed. Purchases stopped after the signing of the armistice because the factories had accumulated large reserve stocks.

"In all probability we are going to have a great increase in the volume of business," Mr. Hines declared, "and this ought to produce a larger net profit that will go far toward wiping out the railroad deficit."

TO CALL TURKS NEXT

Big Four to Summon Them as "Witnesses."

Allies' Answer to Counterproposals Will Be Handed to Germans Before June 12.

Paris, June 6.—It is learned from an authoritative source that the Allies' answer to their counter proposals will be handed to the Germans before June 12.

The Big Four has decided to call in the Turkish peace delegates, according to an unofficial report. The exact date has not been fixed.

From the same source it was learned that the Turks will be considered merely as "witnesses" rather than fully accredited plenipotentiaries. This was accepted as indicating the Turks will be given practically no opportunity for discussion of the terms and will have to accept the conditions exactly as drawn up by the Allies.

America's part in drawing up the Turkish treaty is expected to be confined largely to an advisory role, although the question of accepting mandates over former Turkish territories probably will figure in the discussions.

PRESIDENT SETS DATE

Pan-American Financial Conference Meets Jan. 12.

Trading Between South America and Europe Will Not Become Normal for Some Time.

Washington, June 6.—Announcement that President Wilson will convene the second pan-American financial conference on Jan. 12 next, on the recommendation of Secretary Glass, was made by Assistant Secretary Rowe of the Treasury department in an address before the second pan-American commercial conference.

Necessity of closer financial co-operation between the countries of this continent to assist in the development of their resources in order to supply the needs of the war-torn countries of Europe, prompted the calling of the conference, Dr. Rowe said, after a lapse of five years since the first financial conference in 1915, which organized the international high commission. Invitations to the conference have been cabled by the State department to each of the Latin-American governments requesting the attendance of a delegation of three, headed by the minister of finance in each case.

Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City bank of New York, told the conference that trading between South America and Europe could not be resumed as formerly for some time to come as the situation overseas "is more serious than has been grasped on this continent or even by a large proportion of the Europeans themselves."

DEFICIT DUE TO WAR MEASURES

William G. McAdoo Explains Why Railways Ran $200,000,000 Behind.

APPEALS FROM EUROPE

Measures Had to Be Taken to Keep Europe From Starvation and These Resulted in Considerable Emergency Hauling.

Santa Barbara, Calif., June 6.—W. G. McAdoo, former director general of railroads, said in a letter to Thomas M. Starke, publisher of the Daily News here, that the $200,000,000 deficit resulting from government control of railroads last year was due to measures that had to be taken to keep Europe from starvation and to win.

Mr. McAdoo related hitherto unpublished facts as to the situation in February, 1918, when American shipments of cereals abroad were 900,000 tons short for the previous two months.

Because of this shortage the premiers of three Allied countries combined in an appeal to President Wilson to rush wheat, because the morale of the Allied peoples was falling.

Food Priority Determined On.

On Feb. 8, 1918, as a result of this appeal, representatives of the three countries and Herbert Hoover, Dr. H. A. Garfield and Carl R. Gray, representing Mr. McAdoo, met in Washington and decided that absolute priority be granted to food shipments to Atlantic ports. The Allied representatives stated they had sufficient bottoms on hand to carry the wheat—a million tons of it—overseas.

Mr. McAdoo ordered all empty cars for carrying grain rushed to Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma and directed that station agents in those states co-operate with the farmers and elevator men in the prompt loading and dispatch of the filled cars to the Atlantic seaboard.

For two weeks priority and preference were given in the furnishing of box cars for grain and grain products, except merchandise in less than carload lots, print paper and pulp.

Supply Exceeds Cargo Space.

At the expiration of five weeks from the appeal, Mr. McAdoo declared, he was able to notify the Allied representatives that there was more grain at Atlantic ports than their steamships could handle.

He declared that had it not been for war emergencies of this character the $200,000,000 of 1918 could have been turned into a profit. He added that the government was spending $60,000,000 a day for the winning of the war; so that the deficit in reality meant but three and a half days' expenditure.

"The work of rushing the wheat to the seaboard was so quietly performed that no one outside of official circles knew of it, according to Mr. McAdoo.

torney for the plaintiff, and I for my-

of the dearth of amusements in those early days any legal case was a source of general interest. Hence the lobby and dining room and the outer porch of the hotel was packed with interested spectators. The defense took the stand that the California State law should allow the finder of lost property something for his services in the way of salvage, though the boys had no actual knowledge on this point. Each point at law made by the young men against so able an attorney as Mr. Cruikshank was receivjudge ruled that the point was well taken; that the boys were entitled to salvage and that Mr. Oden must pay the finders of his weapon the $5

they asked and settle the court costs before it would be restored to him."

people of Antioch, then boys, who have since become noted in various professions and business enterprises.

prominent merchant of the early days, and who died in Oregon last year. In fact practically the entire

FIRST EXPLOIT AS AN ATTORNEY

(Antioch Tribune, Antioch, Calif.)

An interesting story harking back to the pioneer days of Antioch, when the town was in the making came into the hands of the Tribune last week. A well dressed, impressive looking gentleman about sixty years of age dropped into the Tribune office last Thursday and said: "Would you like to have a good story?"

That, of course, is what any newspaper man is looking for; most of us are suspicious on first blush that an effort is being made to work the paper for free advertising, so naturally the editor was not very enthusiastic at first.

But the gentleman began on his story and the pencil pusher began to sit up and take notice, for the story was fascinating and romantic in the extreme.

Said the visitor: "In February, 1877, three young boys left the mining section of Gold Hill in Nevada, on the Comstock lode over the divide from Virginia City, bound for Arizona. They came overland to Sacramento; then took a steamer bound for Antioch. Here they left the boat and stopped over intending to strike across country for Arizona. Being soldiers of fortune they looked over the town of Antioch, then a little village of four or five hundred population, dependent upon recently opened coal mines and the grain section surrounding the town. The street now known as I, formerly Main street was in fact the main street.

"One day, having nothing in particular to do, two of the young men went down on the wharf at the foot of Main street to watch the Greek fishermen unload salmon. One of the fish fell overboard and the fisherman offered the boys 75 cents to go in and rescue it. Arming themselves with rake and pitchfork the boys plunged into the river at low tide and after considerable futile effort retrieved the salmon but a shot gun, rusty but otherwise in a fine state of preservation. They abandoned the fish hunt and proceeded to clean and oil the gun with a view to selling it and getting a little stake.

"They offered it for sale for five dollars. Presently they were served with papers notifying them to appear for a hearing, the then Postmaster William T. Oden, having claimed the gun, which he said had been dropped overboard some months before. The subpoena was served by Constable Hank Hoistead.

"The boys asked for a speedy trial and their request was granted. The hearing was held at the old Jackson House, of which the Justice of the Peace, David P. Mahan, was proprietor. The hostelry then stood exactly

"I do heavy work, and that is a strain on a man's kidney," writes Bert Dawson, Canton, Ill. "My trouble started with a severe, sharp pain over my back. I bought a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills, and before it was gone, my pains had entirely left me." They banish rheumatic pains, backache, soreness, stiffness. H. P. Dunn, mwf

I took my last round of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy 2 1/2 years ago. Since then I sleep well, eat what I want and feel fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Self-Conquest.
Patience and gentleness are no easy virtues when one is troubled within and buffeted without by life's trials and demands. There are many times when the taking of a might mean less to the individual than the concern of the conquest of his own spirit and tongue. There are tense days when a carping or unjust word falls on the spirit like a lighter match on tinder; wherefore we should be the more careful to store no tinder for ourselves, and toss no lighted matches at our fellows.

"Suing Fever" and Common Sense

Instead of giving up and saying you have "suing fever," it is more sensible to take a good, wholesome physic. Biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, bloating, coated tongue—all are banished by Foley Cathartic Tablets. B. B. Haward, Umdilla, Ga., writes: "Foley Cathartic Tablets give quick relief." H. P. ## 'CAP'N' EZRA RILED

Ancient Mariner Has Trying Day in Boston Town.

And He Will Find Many to Agree With Him in His Positive Assertion That "Umbrellas Is Dangerous Weapons."

I heard a sigh behind me as I unfolded my favorite evening sheet. Someone settled into the seat and rested wearily against me. I exhaled myself from my sheet and stole a side-long glance. In the little leathery man with the nervous bit of chin whiskers I recognized Cap'n Ezra Godskins of our town.

His mild blue eye caught mine and I wished him good evening. He replied with another sigh and the cryptic remark, "Umbrellas is dangerous weapons." Then, like another and better known Ancient Mariner, he seemed unable to contain himself and launched forth into the subject that was torturing his soul.

This is the captain's plaint: "I come into town this mornin' bearin' no man any malice. It looked like rain, but I didn't calculate to let that spoil my good nature. Most every one but me was totin' a umbrella.

"I was bumpin' along in the crowd leavin' the station an' just at the entrance I was surrounded by five fat old ladies who was so interested in decidin' where they was goin' to meet for lunch that they didn't notice that I was standin' in the middle of the conference an' gettin' the benefit of all the emphasis of the pointin' they did with their umbrellas.

"A lady pointin' one direction with a parasol wants to look where's she's a-pointin'.

"I squeeze out of there just in time to get gouged in the high leg by a young feller that carried his umbrella strapped to the side of his valise. He gave me a nasty look for bein' there.

I started up the street and see a feller ahead of me carryin' his umbrella over his shoulder like a musket. He turned to look into a store window and bumped a old man into the side of the head with the muzzle of his weapon. They had some words.

"A young girl that looked bright enough to know better was carryin' her umbrella in the middle and talkin' so fast at the same time I guess she didn't know she was proddin' folks both ahead and behind as though she might be sayin' 'Get up, Jessie; go 'long, Bill!'

"A tall feller with a black ribbon on his eye glasses was whirlin' his slim umbrella around by the handle, thereby gettin' most of the sidewalk and a lot of unfavorable opinion for himself. He varied this a little by usin' it as a cane, swingin' it well out in front and behind. Every once in a while it swung into some one's shanks or stabbed 'em in the instep. He sure had the comfort an' safety of other folks in mind.

"People used 'em as wedges to get into the crowd and as a pry to get out. One young feller I see was standin' on the edge of the sidewalk, leanin'

INTELLIGENCE THE GOVERNING PRINCIPLE OF THE UNIVERSE

Since my article, which was published in the Dispatch May 9th and which was entitled: "Evidence of Evolution in Operation," many questions have come to me about the meaning of it all. By these questions it appears that very few people study religion from a standpoint of natural law. Yes, some people seem to think that the Bible is the foundation of truth.

In saying that intelligence is the governing principle of nature, it may seem to some of these well meaning people that I deny the existence of God as the ruling power. They are mistaken, however. As soon as we begin to see that God rules his universe by natural law and eternal principles, "the same yesterday, today and forever," we may be ready to become "disciples," or to use modern language, students. It may then begin to appear that the "Word of God" is his creation, and that the natural laws and principles governing human life are the foundation of the bible. How well the bible writers have built upon this foundation is another question.

The physical scientists have found perfect law and order governing the physical nature, which is proof sufficient of intelligence. Human experience and the spiritual scientists have found the same order and law governing the super-physical natures, the spiritual, psychical and the moral. Yes, they have found more than law and order, they have found a design and a purpose, and that purpose is the proper development of individual human character.

The governing principle, controlling the destinies of nations is intelligence. It matters not what form of government is established in any nation, the most intelligent rule. This is nature's intent. It is exactly what is desired and what makes any kind of government possible. When the most intelligent class let selfish aims overrule its reason, things will go wrong and they will suffer with the rest. Revolutions are caused by the misuse of the most intelligent. No class can justify say: "I am holier than thou." The less intelligent are as selfish as the most intelligent. If Bolshevism in Russia is a rule by the less intelligent classes it will fall quickly. When the revolutionary fire has burned itself out, the most intelligent will rule again, but with greater wisdom than before. It is as impossible for the less intelligent to rule the more intelligent as it is for weakness to control strength.

In considering this subject do not forget that men in office are not necessarily the rulers except in name. Many kings and emperors of history have been ruled by the real ruling power behind the throne.

Altruism, kindness, sympathy and consideration for others are developed by suffering, a suffering which is the natural consequence of egoism and inconsideration for others, while intelligence and knowledge are developed by mental effort. By personal effort men earn Nature's reward, the ruling power. But, at the same time, Nature has correspondingly charged them with a responsibility equal to the degree of their intelligence and knowledge. Nature has a severe retribution in store for all those who mis-use this power and violate the law of justice. Sooner or later it will overtake them. It matters not if that be on the physical or the spiritual plane of life, if it be here or in the great hereafter.

POLITICS IS MIXED WITH BOLSHEVISM

UNPLEASANT FACT COMPLICATES PROBLEM OF CONGRESS IN DEALING WITH IT.

EX-SOLDIERS WILL SPURN IT

Apologists for This Anarchism, Some of Them in High Places, May Be Put Down as at Heart Pro-German in Their Sympathies.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington—Just how congress is going to approach the subject of bolshevism, or rather anarchism, in the United States it is hard to say. Republican and Democratic members of the house and senate already are saying some things that fairly may be called bold. It is to be noticed, however, that most of these senators and members represent districts or states where the upheaving evils are not so manifest as they are elsewhere. The chances are that some members and senators who like their jobs better than their duties will wobble on bolshevism just as they have wobbled on other things in the not dim past.

The federal government is limited to some extent in its power to checkmate propaganda of certain kinds. It will be a difficult task perhaps for congress to frame proper legislation, but some action is assured.

One word may be said with reference to the United States and bolshevism. Our men in France did not show any kindly affection toward the doctrines of the agents now trying to be supreme in Russia. The American soldier as a rule is a pretty good thinker. If he was not one before he went into the service he became one under the influence of the deceptions which always follow the flag.

From the beginning of things American the impossible thing has been to divorce politics from legislation. Bolshevism is wedded to politics and the legislators know it. Manifestations of certain conditions, harmless enough in themselves perhaps, are looked on mistakenly as marks of the red propaganda. On the other hand some things which are accepted as harmless on their face value have been found to be harmful.

Apologists in High Places.

Bolshevism is found in high places in some parts of this country. This is the Lord's truth, although it is one of the hardest things in the world to prove. Apologists for the present regime in Russia are in many guises. The word ordinarily is that the Russian doings of today are misunderstood and that the killings which are the order are prompted solely by kindly affection for everybody in the world except those marked for slaughter. It is a sort of an Abraham and Isaac business over again, except that unlike Isaac the victim of bolshevism does not escape the knife and the pyre.

In this town there are no wickedly potent apostles of bolshevism. They are all of the hot house type, but their preachings are an encouragement to the non-intellectuals who take their lessons from others and prepare to do the things which the others would shudder to do.

Some day it may be possible that the luner history of the present war can be written freely. There are officers of the government today in the army, and out of it, who know just exactly what parlor bolshevism has been trying to do in this country ever since the war began. There is hardly an apologist for Russian conditions who at heart is a good American. Most of them have been pro-Germans from the start, and it can be said with considerable definiteness that virtually all the movements in the United States for the last three years fostered by the pacifists, the so-called anti-militarists, the leaguers for the defense of conscientious objectors and the members of all other like outfits had their origin not in a desire to bring real reforms or to do real good, but in a heart wish to help the Hun.

Won't Succeed With Ex-Soldiers.

Bolshevism is attempting to enlist discharged soldiers of the American army in its cause. It probably will not have much luck except in a few places where the draft brought into the service some weak-minded ones—a negligible number of draftees whose flabby mentality not even service in the field could bring to normal.

One sees walking round the streets of Washington today representatives of the various organizations which tried their pacifist best to undo their country. They are footloose and smiling. The Hun is liked, but now the hope of these closet warriors in a bad cause is that they can so influence the unthinking ones who have brute courage that they will take the field to do what their directors never have had the stomach to do.

There is not much danger that bolshevism will cause anything of an upheaval in these United States. Nine-tenths of the men of the armies of the Lord and the allies are poison-proof. However, the pacifists, the foster fathers of spurious conscientious objectors, and the intellectual degenerates generally still hope that they can accomplish something, and still are strong for the weekly pay check which comes to them as a reward for their sequestered droolings against everything in life that the red-blooded think is worth while.

THE STORY OF "THE UNPARDONABLE SIN"

THE CAST.

 Dimmy Parcot ..... Mary Alden

 Stephen Parcot ..... Matt Moore
 Mrs. Parcot ..... Matt Moore
 Noll Windsor ..... Matt Moore
 Geo. Washington Sticker ..... Wesley Barry
 Col. Klemm ..... Wallace Beery
 The Brute ..... Bull Montana
 Boy Scout ..... Bobby Connolly

The Parcot—father, mother and two charming daughters—live in Southern California. At the time the action begins, Stephen Parcot, the father, is in the fair north, pursuing his avocation as an explorer. Mrs. Parcot has hurried overseas to Belgium to bring back one daughter who had been placed in a convent there. Dimmy Parcot (the lead in the picture, played by Blanche Sweet, who also appears as the other sister in several parts of the production) is alone in the beautiful Parcot home. She receives a letter from her loved ones abroad—a letter that almost sends her reason tottering from its throne—a letter that tells her that invading soldiers have committed against both her mother and her sister "the unpardonable sin."

The letter has been one last note of explanation—and a plea that mother and sister be forgotten, a cry that their disgrace be shielded from the world.

With the letter carefully hidden in a wallet, Dimmy, half crazed with grief and not figuring the difficulties of the task she has set for herself, sets out to find her loved ones.

Her train is delayed just outside a little town in the Middle West. A chance traveling acquaintance offers aid and, later as Dimmy and her acquaintance are walking through a shaded street in the little village just at dusk, the acquaintance, smitten by Dimmy's beauty, attempts to force his attentions upon her. Dimmy collapses; her reason flees. Only a zephyr of the breath of life remains! Weeks later she recovers her strength, both mental and physical, to find that she has been nursed in the home of the Windsors.

Noll Windsor, an undergraduate at the college in the little town, has learned to love Dimmy. She tells him her story—and torn between the fear of all men and the thought that she may waver from her path of chosen duty, leaves the home without announcement, to continue on her journey.

Soon after, young Windsor answers his government's call to serve with Hoover's Belgian Relief Commission in the devastated country. He arrives in Washington to secure his passport, and discovers Dimmy, who has been in the capital city for some time, unable to continue her journey for the reason that the government has discontinued the issuance of passports to "unmarried" women. Noll and Dimmy effect a marriage of convenience. Dimmy's passport being secure in no other way.

Upon their arrival in Belgium, Noll, husband in name only, finds it possible to do much to aid Dimmy in her search for her people. Together they travel the devastated regions, even penetrating the enemy country—for in those days the United States had not entered the war.

A veritable pawn of Fate, it is Dimmy's misfortune to encounter the very beast who had ravished her sister. When he sees the fresh young girl from California, Colonel Klemm mistakes her for the sister whom he has so shamefully treated in Belgium. He is mystified—and his passion still leads him. Because he thinks Dimmy a spy against his government and because he wishes to possess her again, as he thinks, Klemm hounds Dimmy and Noll everywhere they go.

Klemm is outwitted. Dimmy's mother and sister are found, but not before a second horror in her frail young life has snapped, the thread that tied the little sister to Earth and a bitter disgrace.

Dimmy, her mother, Noll and an interesting little group of refugees, who have been made members of the party, are making a mad dash for the Holland border when a bullet sends Mrs. Parcot close to the brink of death. When she recovers she takes back to her husband in the states only the story of her terrible experience.

Dimmy and Noll find that their "marriage of convenience" must be re-enacted as a "marriage of necessity"—necessary because both have come to desire it.

GODD ROADS DINNER AT HOTEL RANSFORD

Important Gathering at 7 O'clock
Sharp—Miss. River Scenic Highway to be Organized

ST PAUL ROTARIANS NOT COMING

Heavy Roads Make Trip Impossible—Meeting and Dinner Scheduled
—All Boosters to Attend

One of the most important meetings in the history of the good roads movement in Crow Wing county will be held at the Ransford hotel tonight, following the dinner to be served at 7 o'clock sharp and every good roads booster is urged to be present at the dinner as well as the meeting.

County Engineer C. L. Motl, director of the Mississippi River Scenic Highway, will present this proposition in detail, the county organization will be perfected and other road improvement propositions taken up, including needed repairs to roads leading into the city of Brainerd. President Henry I. Cohen of the Black Diamond Trail will also be one of the speakers.

Rotarians Not Coming.

The St. Paul Rotarians, scheduled to be here at 6 P. M. today, will not be able to make the trip on account of heavy roads, according to a telegram received by Chairman A. J. Hayes of the special committee named to arrange for their entertainment. He immediately held a conference with Secretary Lincoln and members of the committee with the result that arrangements for the dinner and meeting were made and active solicitation begun to bring out a goodly number to both.

Manager Butler of the Ransford has made preparations for serving about 60 guests and in justice to him, every person who signed an acceptance to the invitations sent out by Chairman Hayes is urged to be present at the dinner tonight and as many more as are interested in the proposition of good roads in the county.

Commissioners Invited.

Members of the board of county commissioners are invited to attend the dinner as the guests of the Chamber of Commerce and to take part in the meeting and discussions to follow the same.

The new county court house, immediate needs of road improvement in the city and on important highways leading into it and other matters come up, in fact the meeting can be made a practical and constructive one if the business men of the city will take the interest they should. It is time to act, not talk and the time is NOW.

"Be there, Mr. Booster tonight; don't make excuses, but show your hand" is the last word of the committee.

BRAINERD GIRL'S EYE WAS BLINDED

As related by a sister of Miss Jennie Carlson, the girl employed at the Woolforth store was the victim of a girl's prank which may cost her the loss of an eye, when a fellow clerk, Miss Edna Becker, in a spirit of fun snapped three tubes of cement at her and the liquid splashed into Miss Carlson's eye, burning it severely.

Doctors relieved the terrible pain with injections and sought to remove the liquid cement which had hardened and caked where it struck the eyeball.

Miss Jennie Carlson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Carlson of 714 South Tenth street. Friends deeply deplore the accident.

BISHOP WELCOMED TO THE CITY TODAY

Rt. Rev. Bishop J. T. McNicholas, D. D., of Duluth, Guest of Honor at Noon Banquet

BY KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Priests Present Reb. Father O'Mahoney, Crean, Turbiaux, Dufresne, O'Donnell

Catholics of Brainerd and friends of the church welcomed to the city near the noon hour today Rt. Rev. Bishop J. T. McNicholas, D. D., of Duluth, on his initial visit to the local parish. At the banquet given by the Knights of Columbus at the Ransford hotel sat Rev. Father J. J. O'Mahoney and Rev. Father John Crean of St. Francis Catholic church; Rev. Father A. Turbiaux, of Crosby; Rev. Father Dufresne, of St. Mathias; Rev. Father J. P. O'Donnell, of St. Paul, newly ordained. Representative citizens and members of the Knights of Columbus of Brainerd Council No. 1491, completed a group which listened with deep interest to the words of the bishop as he responded to the expressions of welcome.

Rev. Father O'Mahoney introduced the first speaker, Hon. H. P. Dunn.

"This," said Mr. Dunn, "is one of the most eventful days in the history of Brainerd Catholics. In behalf of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholics of Brainerd we give you welcome. Until today you have been a stranger to us, but your name and your many good qualities have preceded you. We mourn the loss of Bishop McGolrick and his many noble traits of character. In the face of gloom we rejoice that the diocese has been blessed by such a worthy successor. We can assure you of our hearty cooperation in the upbuilding of the diocese. Again we heartily welcome you to Brainerd."

Bishop McNicholas said it gave him unexpected pleasure to meet the priests of this section and the other gentlemen present. He told of his early work in the church, a labor of love in the formation of young men for the priesthood. Almost exclusively his life had been devoted to men.

He appreciated the presence of the Knights of Columbus to greet the authority of the diocese.

"You men of the Knights of Columbus have given splendid examples of your power and worth in the war days. The pages of history written there are glorious ones for the Knights of Columbus. I know that you will not be satisfied with your war achievements but will continue service in peace times. This portion of Brainerd will furnish a splendid example to the rest of the diocese. I am glad to see so many young faces at the table."

The Knights of Columbus required patriotism of the highest order in war and peace time. Man cannot rise to the greatest heights or fullest development without religion. The seed of the supernatural is implanted in our nature. The religious side of character must be developed, said the bishop.

Through commendable patriotism and public spirit coupled with a development of the religious side, he was assured the Knights of Columbus would be a noble example in the day of reconstruction.

"I stand behind you with the authority of the church in everything that means good citizenship and patriotism and true religion. The principles of the church can guide us in every crisis. The Catholic church is in sympathy with the laboring man," said the bishop.

War gave the laboring man a great victory, but in these days of reconstruction he should be cautioned to avoid extremes and extremes. The lesson of justice must be taught anew. False doctrines have been promulgated and the clear doctrine of the church must again be brought out.

"Render to capital that which is due it. Render to labor that which is due," said the bishop.

In concluding, Bishop McNicholas voiced his deep appreciation of the welcome accorded him, of the cooperation promised him and of the deep interest all took in the upbuilding of parish and church.

A short reception followed the dinner, the bishop being introduced to those present. He had a kindly word for each and gifted with a remarkable memory, quickly remembered names and faces.

It had been planned to take the bishop to Crosby for a short visit at the parish there. A promise has also been gained to have the bishop visit the St. Mathias church presided over by Rev. Father Dufresne where one of the largest classes in the history of the parish will shortly be confirmed.

This evening Bishop McNicholas will deliver the commencement day address at the Park theatre when a large class will be graduated from St. Francis Catholic parochial school.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

It happened at the Best and the movies were portraying the incident in the life of a gent's furnishing goods man in a small town who was about to bet a roll of $15,000 on a sure thing while the gang of crooks were waiting for the plum to fall in their laps. Now what organ music, kind reader, should accompany such a scene? Miss Cecil Witham was equal to the occasion. She played that classic, "The Swan Song" by Saen Saens. Again a scene of roaring, rampant slaughter in which half a dozen huns paid the penalty and the smoke cleared, revealing the hero unscathed. Again, fair reader, we put it up to you, what selection would you play to fill in with the dominant thought? Miss Cecil played "A Perfect Day."

It was due largely to the efforts of Sgt. William V. Turcotte that the Memorial Day parade mustered a showing of world war veterans. Many were gained by personal solicitation, by telephoning. Half in line came from the country. A corporal's guard with power to act could have doubled the line by inducing soldiers in uniform to leave the sidewalks and march in the parade.

83 LIVES LOST IN MINE EXPLOSION

Broken Trolley Wire Sets Off Powder on Train Carrying Miners to Work.

MANY BODIES BURNED

Law Violation, in Carrying Powder on Same Cars With Men, Is Charged

—List of Injured Reaches More Than Thirty.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 6.—Eighty-three men dead and 30 others burned and maimed, many of whom will die, is the toll of a disaster in the Baltimore tunnel of the Delaware & Hudson Coal company in the east end of this city.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 6.—According to a list given out by the Delaware and Ohio Coal company officials, 78 men lost their lives in the Baltimore No. 2 tunnel explosion and fire and 31 were injured.

Forty-one bodies have been identified and 37 remain unidentified. The company's injured list is not complete but it is certain that the number of injured will reach about 40.

The disaster is, without exception, the greatest that has ever occurred in this vicinity.

Wire Breaks; Powder Explodes.

More than one hundred mine workers were riding to their work crowded into what is known as a trip of mine cars drawn by a motor. The rear car carried 12 kegs of black powder used for blasting loose the coal in the chambers.

The trolley wire snapped when the train had gone about 200 feet from the entrance. The wire sputtered and sizzled and the sparks it emitted touched off the powder.

Mangled Bodies Found Everywhere

There was a roar and in an instant every man and boy on the train was either dead or dying. Mangled bodies were found everywhere by the rescue crews.

Fire fighters, working frantically, succeeded in an incredibly short time in subduing the flames which followed the blast. Then came the gruesome work of taking out dead and injured. Those who had not already succumbed were so badly burned that in nearly every case death is a matter of only a short time.

Law Violated, Charge.

Alleged violation of mine laws of the state caused the great loss of life. One of the most drastic provisions of the anthracite mine code is the section forbidding the transportation of men on a car or train which carries explosives. Yet the train of little cars conveying its freight of miners had attached to its rear a car of a dozen kegs of powder. Investigation will disclose whether the men or the company is responsible for this violation of the law.

Bodies Brought Out Burning.

Some of the first bodies brought from the tunnel were burning when they reached the surface. Clothes had been burned away and the flesh was roasting from the intense heat. Water was poured on these to put out the fire. Company employees said there is a "pull" of 186,000 cubic feet of air per minute in the tunnel and that the air pulled in the flames from the powder directly over the men. Along the side of the tunnel there is a creek and at the flash of the flames some men who were walking along the side of the trip of cars dropped into the water and saved their lives.

Returned Soldiers Hunt Parents.

East end a few hours ago was the scene of great gaiety. That section of the city welcomed home boys from the 311 Field Artillery. Bands were out, flags were flying, red fire burned. Within 12 hours the joy of some of the soldiers turned into despair. Their fathers were among the dead.

GOVERNOR TO MARRY HERO

Bright Rupert.

The lesson was on the rabbit. "The rabbit has long ears, fur on its body, and a tail, nothing to speak of, though," the master informed the class.

The next day he wanted to see what they knew about it.

"Now, then, Rupert," he barked to a particularly bright youth, "tell me something about the rabbit."

"The rabbit has a tail," said Rupert, eyeing his silent fellows triumphantly, "but it mustn't talk about it."

Just So.

She was teaching the word "element" to a sixth grade. She had told them its meaning—the substances of which a thing is composed—and then had illustrated her definition by saying that the elements of the earth were water and soil.

Then she asked them to write sentences containing the word. And this is the one Henry wrote:

"Water is one of the elements of milk."

WELFARE WORK IS GIVEN WARM PRAISE

ALL THE ORGANIZATIONS WITH OUR ARMIES HAVE EARNED WARM COMMENDATION.

CRITICISM OF "Y" EXPLAINED

Due to Failure of a Few Secretaries and to Habit of Generalizing From Isolated Conditions Where Complaint Is Justified.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Washington has gone over the top, to use the familiar phrase which has already become bromidic, in every "drive"—for Liberty loans, Victory loan, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other organizations and associations which have done service in the war.

It is perhaps in Washington that one gets direct from fountain heads the most explicit praise and criticism that it is possible to get of the work of the various organizations which went into the field in behalf of the welfare of the soldiers. There has been criticism of this and criticism of that, but after talking to scores of returned soldiers and coupling up what they had to say with my own experience in France, I think I safely can say that the good which all the welfare organizations did reach such monumental proportions of blessedness that the errors might well be chucked underground and forgotten.

One gets on to somewhat dangerous ground in a way in attempting to give reasons for such criticism as has been aroused. German propaganda had a good deal to do with early fault-finding with the Red Cross. This great organization, with its headquarters in this town, came out of its troubles early and late with its flag flying and unsmirched.

Truth About the Y. M. C. A.

Of the organizations not directly connected with the work for the wounded, the Y. M. C. A. seemingly was the target for more attacks than any other association of workers. The Y. M. C. A. seems to have withstood the battle, although some of its officers have admitted that they received a few missiles which they deserved.

From what I have heard from soldiers, and so far as my own experience went in France, the Y. M. C. A. suffered from the lack of personality and temperament of a few of its secretaries here, there and elsewhere in the field, while the body of workers as a mass were all right and above criticism.

Occasionally during the progress of the war one would hear a story that a certain division of soldiers was not properly fed while in the field. Usually when the inquiry was made it was found out that the persons telling the stories of the hunger of the division were civilians who had happened to meet some small unit of the division which had not been fed for a day, as occasionally in the isolations of battle conditions might be possible. Men are given to making the isolated condition general, and so if twenty soldiers of a company, of a battalion, of a regiment, of a brigade, of a division, happened to tell a tale of woe, the hearers thereof applied the condition to the whole division with the result that the country was unduly aroused over a condition which did not exist.

All Did Their Work Well.

So it was to some extent with the criticisms of the Y. M. C. A. and of some other organizations in the field. The Salvation Army and the Knights of Columbus did fine work in France. Their operations were not of anything like the same magnitude as those of the Young Men's Christian association. They did a fine work well. Everywhere that a soldier went in France from a seaport to the fastnesses of the Vosges he would find these three organizations, the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C. and the Salvation Army, at work.

The Young Men's Christian association, having a much larger personnel than the others and a much wider field of operations, had an enormous task to do and perhaps it is safe to say that the surprise should be that in doing such a gigantic work it succeeded in doing it as well as it did.

The Salvation Army largely confined its efforts to the field, where of course the Young Men's Christian association and the Knights of Columbus worked likewise, but the two latter organizations did extensive work in the cities and towns back from the advance zone of battle, places where in a sense the work was more necessary than it was at the front because the soldiers in the larger towns and villages of France needed safeguarding in ways which men at the front did not. Officers and enlisted men in cities like Paris, Tours, Bourges, Chaumont, Troyes, Bordeaux, Brest, Havre and Blois found these organizations of workers present and devoted to the task of doing things for men who, while longing to be at the front, were compelled to serve in the places of less pulse-stirring excitement.

Their Nature.

"Hear the Comeups went out in their new machine and it got out of their control and actually ran up a telegraph pole."

"I always did say those people were climbers."

LT. WALTER HINTON.

Ambitious gobs have been absorbing what lies behind the success of Lieutenant Walter Hinton, U. S. N. He entered the navy as an enlisted man in 1913 and is now an officer because he is the sort of man the navy wants. He was one of the pilots of the NC-4, the lame duck of the flying fleet which started for Europe, was forced to drop out of the race, but overcame hard luck and was the only one of the NC fleet to reach Europe.

Quarantine of Regiment Lifted.

Rival of the X-Ray.

A physician has contrived a simple camera that seems to rival the X-ray in a limited field. Into a light-proof box, containing the member to be examined, he admits light from a tungsten lamp, filtered to pass only red rays. Passing through the hand or foot the red light strikes, at the bottom of the box, a photographic plate highly sensitized with an eosin solution. An exposure of one-half second makes the shadow picture.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.
